My husband was deployed overseas unexpectedly and I am now managing our home and two young kids alone. My WGU exam is scheduled for this weekend and I have not had a single quiet hour to study. I am exhausted and my mind feels foggy. Has anyone here found a reliable way to take my WGU exam during a difficult family situation like this? I need honest advice from people who have been through something similar. Please share what worked for you without causing more stress. I really need to get through this term.
