Where Do Semi-Pro Players Find Real Trial Offers?

_____

After leaving my college squad, I kept hearing the same advice from coaches, which was to get seen by the right people instead of sending clips to every page I found. I decided to test that idea properly. I put my full football history, positions, match videos and availability into one profile on Club Connect, and within weeks I had clubs viewing my details and starting private conversations. The best part was knowing every club had already been checked before it could reach me. I also looked at the premium side, and Club Connect Recruit Player Pro added extra search visibility plus view statistics that showed me which clubs were paying attention. So my question is simple, where have you found genuine trial offers, and did a structured profile help you more than word of mouth ever did?
