Airmatic warning on my E-Class, need someone near Al Barsha who knows these systems

The Airmatic warning came up on my dash yesterday, telling me to visit a workshop, and the car feels like it's riding on its bump stops over rough patches. It's not undriveable but it's clearly not right, and I don't want to make it worse by ignoring it. I'm near Al Barsha so I've been looking for Quality Mercedes Airmatic suspension service in Al Barsha, but I'm wary of handing it to just anyone since these systems seem to baffle a lot of garages. Has anyone had Airmatic issues and found someone who actually diagnosed it properly rather than replacing parts one by one? Also, how urgent is this, can I drive it for a few days while I sort out a booking, or am I risking damage to the compressor?
