

How to Pack for a Haridwar Move?

I'm planning a household move to Haridwar and trying to figure out the best way to pack everything without damaging or losing items. For anyone who has moved recently, what is the most practical way to organize packing before moving day?

I'm thinking of starting by sorting belongings into categories and getting rid of things that are no longer needed. Fragile items like glassware and electronics should be wrapped separately, while clothes, books, and kitchen items can be packed in clearly labelled boxes. Important documents, jewellery, medicines, and other valuables should probably be kept separately instead of being placed with regular household goods.

If I decide to hire Packers and Movers in Haridwar, I'd also want to confirm whether they provide packing materials and whether fragile items receive special handling. Before booking, I'd compare written estimates, check reviews, ask about their experience, and confirm the expected pickup and delivery timeline.

I'd also like to know whether transit insurance is available for valuable or fragile belongings and whether there could be additional charges for packing, stairs, loading, or unloading. A clear quote would help avoid misunderstandings later.

For those who have moved to or within Haridwar, what packing method worked best for you? Are there any common packing mistakes or questions I should ask the movers before finalizing the service?
