How Do You Find Cargo Services?

I recently helped a friend send some business items to another city, and finding a suitable shipping option took more time than expected. While searching for cargo services near me, we compared delivery times, pricing, tracking, and how carefully different companies handled shipments. We eventually realized that checking these details first can prevent problems later. When you need to send larger goods, what do you usually look for before choosing a cargo service? I would appreciate hearing about your experience and any useful tips.
