A few weeks ago, my family decided to repaint our living room, and I spent several evenings moving furniture, covering shelves, and helping with cleanup. I had planned to use those evenings to revise my WGU course material, but my study schedule quickly changed. With an online assessment approaching, I needed to find a better way to review difficult topics and use my limited free time. While browsing student forums, I came across the phrase take my online wgu exam and wondered what preparation methods other students recommend. Do you use practice tests, online tutoring, or weekly study plans to feel ready for your exams?
